crispy potatoes, juicy steak, using only one pan.

start potatoes hot, drop oven for a gentle steak roast, finish with a fast pan sear while asparagus cooks as the steak rests.

0:00 — preheat + prep

- Preheat oven to 425 °F
- Wash and dry small potatoes; halve if large
- Toss with olive oil, salt, pepper (optional: garlic, rosemary)
- Spread in a single layer on a baking sheet

0:05 — roast potatoes

- Roast for 25–30 min, flipping halfway
- While roasting, season steak with salt and pepper
- Trim and prep asparagus

0:30 — remove potatoes, start steak

- Remove potatoes; tent loosely with foil
- Lower oven to 250 °F
- Place steak on a wire rack over a baking sheet
- Roast until internal temp reaches:
 - 115–120 °F for rare
 - 120–125 °F for medium rare
- This typically takes 20–30 min

0:50 — heat cast iron

- Heat cast iron pan on high until blazing hot

1:00 — sear steak

- Sear steak for 45–60 sec per side
- Optional: add butter, smashed garlic, and herbs to baste
- Rest steak 5–10 min

1:00 — cook asparagus while steak rests option a: pan-sear (recommended)

- Wipe out cast iron pan
- Add olive oil and cook asparagus on medium-high heat
- Sauté 4–6 min, until just tender
- Season with salt, pepper, optional lemon zest or a splash of balsamic option b: roast

- Toss asparagus with oil, salt, pepper
- Roast in hot oven at 425 °F for 8–10 min
- Do this while steak rests and potatoes reheat

1:10 — plate and serve

- Rewarm potatoes in oven if needed (~5 min)
- Slice steak against the grain
- Serve steak, potatoes, and asparagus hot
